

Surrey, BC, Canada
www.willgro.ca

Keep Those Name Tags

A typical plant tag carries information about your new plant. Given the huge number of orchid species and hybrids, there will be no practical way to identify your plant if you lose the tag.

Reading the tag is generally straightforward.

The information on a tag might look like this:

Species are found in nature; similar species are grouped into the same genus (the plural of genus is genera).